August 2021

Dear Families,

In planning for our re-entry to full-time in person learning in September, the District has outlined Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) support and resources for students, staff, and families across the District. Our SEL support will provide the foundation for a safe and positive learning environment where all students can be successful and have the best experiences both socially and academically. SEL supports can improve students’ attitudes toward school, and reduce stress by providing target support, predictable routines, and structure.

Districtwide:
- Trauma Awareness for Faculty/Staff: All faculty and staff will be provided with professional development, prior to the start of school, focusing on trauma awareness. Understanding how trauma impacts performance in the educational setting can change how we interact with our most vulnerable youth.

  Objectives
  - Articulate the definition of trauma
  - Describe the stress response and what it could look like in the classroom
  - Describe "downstairs brain" and provide examples
  - Know the importance of setting up routines in the classroom for regulation, relationships, and self-awareness
  - Understand the 3 R's (Regulate, Relate, Reason) when interacting with youth

- Self-Care for Faculty: All faculty and staff will be provided an optional fall workshop (Date and Time TBD) focused on managing their own social-emotional health. Professionals going into careers focused on caring for and helping others are often motivated by the internal satisfaction derived from helping others. Quite often this compassion and satisfaction is what keeps helping professionals going; without recognizing the mental, emotional, and physical drain caring for others can have on their bodies. Charles Figley (1995) refers to this as the “There is a cost to caring” or compassion fatigue. Education and mental health professionals both fall into the category of helping professionals with the potential for high levels of compassion fatigue.
Objectives

- Participants will be able to discuss compassion fatigue, compassion satisfaction, and compassion resilience.
- Participants will be able to develop their own self-care plans as well as be able to assist others to develop self-care plans.
- Participants will identify system features to establish a culture promoting compassion resilience and data for monitoring.

- Transitioning Back to School: Workshop for Families
  (September 22, 6:30 pm Secondary, 7:30 pm Elementary)

  Our consultant from Cognitive Behavior Associates of Westchester, Dr. Lauren Bonavitacola, will continue the conversation on anxiety, fear, and worry during a pandemic. Dr. Bonavitacola will help families to work with their children to help manage these feelings by providing strategies and coping skills for both elementary and secondary students during two separate workshops in September.

Objectives

- TBD, Will gather information regarding students’ social emotional transition during the first two weeks of school.
- Continuation of our Districtwide SEL Committee, September 2021.

Waverly School:

- Kindergarten Orientation:
  Before the opening of school, incoming kindergarten families will be provided a video including clips from all of the kindergarten classroom, co-teachers and special educators discussing the kindergarten experience. In addition, on the first day of school, incoming kindergarten students will have the opportunity to meet their teachers, new classmates and explore their classrooms for a short duration - just enough to get students excited about their new academic adventure. Special area teachers visit each kindergarten classroom before specials begin. They are introduced and an association made between the child’s classroom teacher and the team.

building administrators and also participate in weekly Instructional Support Team meetings where students in crisis/need of intervention are discussed.

- School Psychologists:
  Our three school psychologists work closely with our school counselors, nursing office, and building administrators to support students individually or in small groups as they cope with the pressures and demands in their lives from a variety of sources: academics, social, familial, etc. School psychologists also participate in weekly Instructional Support Team meetings where students in crisis/need of intervention are discussed.

These have been challenging times and we are committed to providing our children with the best learning environment possible. Please enjoy these last few weeks with your families and we are looking forward to seeing everyone soon!

Sincerely,
